Hi Everyone,

Working with Reiki is a gentle reminder that we are never separate from the energy that sustains us. Each time we connect with Reiki, we step into a space where the noise of the world softens and the deeper rhythm of life becomes clear again.

Reiki flows with quiet intelligence, meeting us exactly where we are, offering balance, clarity, and a sense of being held by something far greater than ourselves. In this space, we learn to trust the subtle language of energy — the warmth, the stillness, the soft expansion that tells us we are aligning with our true nature.
As practitioners, we become partners with this universal energy, allowing it to guide our hands, our intuition, and our awareness. Reiki teaches us to listen deeply, to honour the body's wisdom, and to recognise that healing is not forced but invited.
When we work with Reiki, we witness transformation in its most natural form: tension dissolving, emotions settling, and the spirit gently rising. It is a privilege to support others in this way, and a blessing to feel the energy move through us — reminding us that every session is both an offering and a moment of connection with the living, breathing universe.

Beat your Ego

Take away the "E" and let it "Go"

Beat Your Ego – An Evening of Insight, Honesty, and Inner Alignment at Reiki Tradition School of Reiki

At Reiki Tradition School of Reiki, we believe that true Reiki practice begins with self-awareness. Reiki is not simply a technique; it is a lifelong journey of personal refinement, humility, and spiritual clarity. One of the most meaningful ways we support this growth is through our reflective evening event, Beat Your Ego — a dedicated space where students can gently explore the influence of ego and learn how to soften its hold on their Reiki practice and everyday life.

Held from 7:00pm to 9:15pm, this immersive evening invites participants to pause, breathe, and look inward with honesty and compassion. It is an opportunity to step away from the noise of daily life and reconnect with the quiet truth of who they are beneath the layers of expectation, fear, and self-judgement.

Understanding the Ego: A Compassionate Approach
In Reiki, the ego is not something to be defeated or rejected. It is a part of us — a protective mechanism shaped by past experiences, insecurities, and the desire to feel safe. However, when ego becomes dominant, it can cloud intuition, create emotional tension, and interfere with the natural flow of Reiki energy. Ego shows up in many subtle ways:

- The need to be "right" or validated
- Comparing ourselves to others
- Doubting our abilities or worth
- Feeling defensive or reactive

NEXT

Beat your Ego

Take away the "E" and let it "Go"

- Wanting control over outcomes
- Worrying about how we are perceived

These patterns are human. They are familiar. And they are often unconscious. Beat Your Ego offers a gentle, structured way to bring these patterns into awareness — not to judge them, but to understand them. When we recognise ego with kindness, its grip loosens, and we begin to reconnect with our authentic, grounded self, our inner spiritual devine body.

A Thoughtful Evening of Exploration
The evening unfolds gradually, allowing students to settle into a reflective mindset. Through guided discussion, shared experiences, and simple yet powerful awareness exercises, participants begin to see how ego influences their reactions, relationships, and spiritual development.
The session encourages students to:

- Observe their internal dialogue with curiosity
- Recognise emotional triggers and ego-driven habits
- Explore how ego affects their Reiki practice
- Develop humility, compassion, and authentic confidence
- Strengthen their connection to Reiki energy
- Cultivate emotional balance and inner steadiness

This is not a lecture. It is a conversation — a safe, supportive environment where students can explore their inner landscape without fear of judgement. Many find that simply naming their ego patterns brings a sense of relief, clarity, and empowerment.

Beat your Ego

Take away the "E" and let it "Go"

Why This Work Matters in Reiki
Reiki is a practice of surrender. It asks us to step aside and allow the energy to flow without interference. When ego is loud, it becomes difficult to hear intuition, trust the process, or remain fully present with the person we are supporting.

By gently exploring ego, practitioners learn to:

- Work from a place of neutrality and compassion
- Trust their intuition more deeply
- Release the need for control or perfection
- Strengthen their energetic sensitivity
- Approach Reiki with humility and authenticity

Students often describe Beat Your Ego as a turning point — a moment where their Reiki practice shifts from technique to true embodiment. The insights gained during this evening frequently ripple into their personal lives, improving communication, confidence, emotional resilience, and self-understanding.
A Community Rooted in Authentic Growth At Reiki Tradition School of Reiki, we honour the original Eastern lineage of Reiki and uphold the highest standards of accredited, ethical practice. Beat Your Ego reflects this commitment by offering students a meaningful opportunity to deepen their self-awareness and strengthen their spiritual foundation.

Whether you are new to Reiki or continuing your journey with us, this event invites you to step into greater authenticity, balance, and inner peace. It is an evening of truth, reflection, and gentle transformation — a chance to meet yourself with honesty and emerge with a clearer, more centred sense of who you are.

Sage

The Unknown Facts. Making you Cleanse a better space.

Sage is a sacred, living plant, and must always be treated with respect during cleansing work. It is available in several forms, including smudging sticks, lollipop bundles, and loose leaves. Before any cleansing, a short ceremony is performed to ask the Sage whether it wishes to be burnt. This is an essential step, as the plant's response directly affects the energy of the room.
If the Sage indicates yes, it may be used for cleansing. If the Sage indicates no, it must never be burnt. Using unwilling Sage can create a detrimental atmosphere within the space, making it extremely difficult to restore energetic balance. In such cases, the Sage is respectfully returned to Mother Earth.
This simple but important ceremony ensures that all cleansing is carried out safely, professionally, and in harmony with the plant spirit

The Importance of Sage

1. The Therapy Rooms

At Reiki Tradition, we uphold a respectful and disciplined Sage Cleansing Ceremony as part of our commitment to maintaining a harmonious and energetically balanced environment within our therapy rooms. Before any cleansing begins, we ask permission from the sage itself, honouring the belief that sage is a living, conscious plant spirit. If, during the ceremony, the sage indicates that it does not wish to be burnt, it is never used. Instead, it is returned to Mother Earth and buried with full respect.

Many people are unaware that burning sage without its consent — even with good intentions — can have the opposite effect of what is intended. Rather than cleansing or purifying a space, unwilling sage can amplify energetic disturbance and create significantly higher levels of negativity within the room.

NEXT

Sage

The Unknown Facts. Making you Cleanse a better space.

I Need to Empasise the Importance of Correctly using Sage

At Reiki Tradition, every Sage Cleansing Ceremony begins with a moment of quiet connection to the plant spirit. Sage is recognised as a living, conscious medicine, and therefore it must never be burnt without its clear permission. Before any cleansing ritual is carried out within our therapy rooms or wider space, we hold the sage respectfully and ask whether it is willing to be burnt and to perform the cleansing work required.

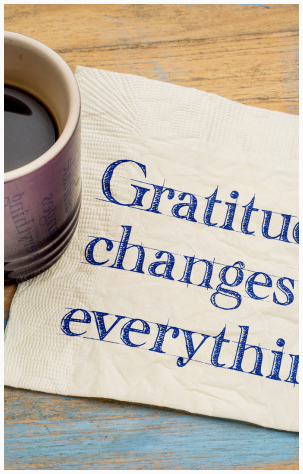

If the sage indicates yes, the ceremony proceeds, and the plant is honoured for its role in purifying and harmonising the environment. If the sage indicates no, it must never be burnt. In such cases, the sage is respectfully returned to Mother Earth and buried with gratitude, ensuring that our practice remains aligned with the plant spirit and the natural world.

It is important to understand that burning sage after it has indicated NO can have a detrimental effect on the energetic atmosphere of the space. Unwilling sage does not cleanse — it amplifies negativity. This disturbance can be profound, and correcting it is extremely difficult. In many cases, it is almost impossible. True restoration would require tracing the sage back to its original grower or caretaker, where only that person — or the shaman responsible for the land on which the sage was grown — holds the authority and connection needed to cleanse and rebalance the space fully.

Sage

The Unknown Facts. Making you Cleanse a better space.

2. Begin with intention and gratitude

Saging is a ceremony, not a “cleansing hack.”
Before lighting the medicine, you:

- Hold it in your hands
- Offer gratitude to the plant
- State your intention clearly (quietly or aloud)
- Ask the plant to help you

This is essential. The medicine works through relationship, not smoke alone.

3. Light the Sage respectfully

Most practitioners knowing Sage:

- Use matches or a wooden stick, not a lighter
- Light gently—do not burn it like incense
- Let it smoulder naturally
- Never blow on it (breath is sacred; blowing is seen as disrespectful in many Nations)

Instead, fan the smoke with a feather or your hand.

4. Smudge yourself before smudging a space

This is a common teaching across Plains and Woodland Nations.
The order is usually:

- Head – clear thoughts
- Eyes – see truth
- Ears – hear wisdom
- Mouth – speak truth
- Heart – hold compassion
- Body – release heaviness
- Feet – walk the right path

Move the smoke toward you, never away.

NEXT

Sage

The Unknown Facts. Making you Cleanse a better space.

5. Smudge the space with respect

At Reiki Tradition School of Reiki we operate two cleansing methods a Quick intermediate cleanse and a Full Intense Cleanse.
(A) Key points, Quick intermediate Method:

- Start at the entrance
- Move around the perimeter
- Pay attention to corners
- Keep windows slightly open so the energy has somewhere to go
- Do not “force” the smoke—let it move naturally

(B) Key points, Full Intense Method:

- Start at the furthest corner
- Move in the direction to a entry exit door that will be open
- Sage using a feather sweeping the negative energy out and through the door
- Repeat to all other corners till you end up with the nearest corner
- As you are wiping the energy away visualise you are walking through the smoke cleansing your whole body
- Call upon guides to help and assist in the cleansing process constantly
- Pay attention to corners
- Keep windows slightly open so the energy has somewhere to go
- Do not “force” the smoke—let it move naturally

6. Close the ceremony properly

Saging is not complete until you:

- Thank the plant
- Extinguish it respectfully (press into sand or earth—never water)
- Offer a final prayer or moment of gratitude

7. Understand cultural boundaries

Many Indigenous Elders teach:

- Smudging is not a “product” or “service”
- It is not for “cleansing negative vibes”
- It is not a replacement for mental health care
- It should not be performed casually or commercially
- It should not be copied without understanding the cultural context

If you are not Indigenous, the respectful approach is:
Learn from an Elder or knowledge keeper, not from commercial books or TikTok.

Sage

The Unknown Facts. Making you Cleanse a better space.

8. If you are non-Indigenous, here is the respectful path

You can still honour the practice without appropriating it:

- Use local herbs (lavender, rosemary, garden sage)
- Frame it as your own cleansing ritual, not “smudging”
- Do not claim Indigenous lineage or teachings
- Do not sell smudging services
- Do not use sacred language (e.g., “medicine person,” “shaman,” “spirit animal”)
- Acknowledge the Indigenous origins when you speak about it

This keeps the practice respectful and avoids cultural harm.

This keeps the practice respectful and avoids cultural harm.

Always Remember sage is a living plant.

TAMESIDE NHS

A peep inside

Reiki Tradition School of Reiki

In 2015, Reiki Tradition was first introduced to a local hospice within the Tameside area. We were invited to deliver an Accredited Qualification Pathway in Reiki to members of the management team. Shortly after this initial training, the hospice began integrating Reiki within the McMillan Unit at Tameside NHS Hospital.
Reiki Tradition was proud to have our very first Accredited Reiki Practitioner working within the McMillan Unit, a role they continued with dedication for eleven years. As the McMillan Unit has expanded, Reiki Tradition has remained closely involved, supporting the development of voluntary placements for our Accredited Reiki Practitioners within the unit.
If you are interested in exploring voluntary opportunities within the McMillan Unit, please contact me

A look inside

I need you to meet Piotr Kieruzel. A personal Friend and fellow Reiki Practitioner. Before we read Piotr's story Working at the McMillan Unit. Piotr first walked through the doors at the Therapy Rooms to start his Reiki Journey Accredited Qualification Degree of 1st degree on the 7th October 2022, Piotr went on to complete Reiki 2nd Degree on the 2nd September 2023 and finally Masters 3rd degree on 7th October 2024.

Piotr Graduated his Accredited Qualification on the 2nd March 2025.

2026 Piotr was asked if he would be interested in Working at the McMillan Unit Piotr replied with a big resounding Yes

Lets read Piotr's Story

We need More Students

Due to the expansion of the McMillan unit we are currently looking for Accredited Students to join us working single handedly as part of a much larger multidisiplinary team.

I need to emphasise these positions are only open to our Accredited Qualification Students.

TAMESIDE NHS

Piotr's Story

The day and life of working Professional

My name is Piotr Kieruzel and I am 11th-generation Reiki master and clinical practitioner in the traditional Usui Reiki Ryōhō system, with my roots anchored at Reiki Tradition School of Reiki and Mr. Martin Thirlwell as my teacher and mentor.

I offer Reiki as a complementary form of care for people living with cancer at local MacMillan hospital cancer centre at Ashton under Lyne.

In my experience, hospitals do an essential job of caring for the physical body, but patients often express that there is no space or time there to address, process and release the emotional and mental impact of their illness.

Reiki offers a quiet, compassionate space where people can pause, breathe and reconnect with themselves, find their spiritual side, rediscover energy body through reiki sensations during energy flow, such as warmth, tingling, sensation of floating, seeing colours which astonishes them to say the least.

They discover that body is only part of the picture and that energetic imbalances and blocks play a great part in their wellbeing and healing journey.

During Reiki sessions, patients often open up about fears, anxieties , uncertainty, traumas from childhood and repressed emotions that they may find difficult to express elsewhere.
The opportunity to be listened to without judgement after a reiki session, combined with time for deep relaxation and stillness, becomes an important part of their emotional journey.

People describe to me often that reiki brings a deep sense of peace, acceptance and emotional release that they could not find anywhere else or were not able to achieve on their own. Some notice pain alleviation, others speak of rediscovering inner strength, hope and their will to live.

I find that Reiki complements beautifully conventional care by recognising that wellbeing involves more than the physical body.
For many patients, Reiki provides something they feel is often missing from the hospital experience: dedicated time to care for the mind, emotions and spirit as well as the body.

And so my aim is to offer compassionate human connection, presence and support—helping people feel heard, calmer and more at peace and that is brought be stilling the mind during a Reiki session.
